Marty Kolinski,Tricia Crosby and Will Trahan Present:

A Study Club Series for the Progressive Dental Practice

Session 4

This is a series of 5 parallel lectures. Part of each of the lectures will be devoted to development of clinical skills in the area of implant dentistry with a parallel series on practice development and practice management. The aim of this course is to help those who wish to optimize their clinical skills, in a way that these services can be provided to your patients with excellent outcomes in a profitable and relatively stress free environment. These presentations will take place over a period of 2 years. They will be done in a series with each successive session building on the previous sessions, however each presentation will be valuable in and of itself.

Practice management aspect - How to collect for the treatment you perform

This lecture will involve discussion of a step by step patient flow through the office, specifically, how to set up payment procedures and policies. Suggestions of how to deal with difficult patients, and how to manage payment in cases with less than optimal outcomes will be discussed.

Clinical aspect - Diagnosis and treatment of the fully edentulous arch

This session will cover the diagnosis and treatment of the fully edentulous arch. Various treatment options will be covered as well as a step by step of how to do the various treatment approaches.

Date: Monday, March 21, 2016, 5:00-7:30 pm

Dinner will be included
